Title of the Program:

Minor in LGBTQ Studies

Designation: (degree terminology)

Minor

Briefly describe the program proposal (new or change) and provide a justification:

Addition of HIST 172B: Queer Black Histories as an elective for the LGBTQ Studies minor. HIST 172B is a new course proposed by Dr. Rebekkah Mulholland in the History Department and is going through the curricular review process this year. This course focuses on the history of LGBTQ African Americans in the 19th and 20th centuries and therefore is appropriate for inclusion in the LGBTQ Studies minor as an elective. The addition of this elective does not impact the minimum required units for the minor, which continue to be 18 units.

Minor edits to correct the course codes for WOMS 50, 150, 125, and 172. The Women's Studies department is now the Women's and Gender Studies Department with a course code of WGS.

Objectives of the degree program:

The LGBTQ Studies minor will familiarize students with the theoretical and methodological tools used to study sexuality and gender from a variety of disciplinary perspectives, while helping students develop strong critical thinking, oral communication, and writing skills. Students will gain an understanding of how non-normative sexualities and genders have been organized in previous historical moments and in different cultural and national contexts in the present. Coursework will enable students to understand sexuality and gender as identities, social statuses, and categories of knowledge. The minor will provide students with awareness of sexual and gender diversity and how sexuality intersects with and informs other categories of identity and practice, such as race, class, ethnicity, age, and disability. This minor will equip students with the practical skills for a variety of careers, as well as help prepare them for future study of sexuality and gender in graduate and professional degree programs.

University Learning Goals

Undergraduate Learning Goals:

Competence in the disciplines
Knowledge of human cultures and the physical and natural world
Personal and social responsibility
Intellectual and practical skills

Will this program be required as part of a teaching credential program, a single subject, or multiple subject waiver program (e.g., Liberal Studies, Biology) or other school personnel preparation program (e.g., School of Nursing)?

No

Catalog Description:

Units required for Minor: 18

Program Description

The LGBTQ Studies minor provides students with competency in interdisciplinary scholarship related to the study of lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, and queer lives and communities as well as to the study of gender and sexual structures. The minor familiarizes students with the theoretical and methodological tools used to study gender and sexuality from a variety of disciplinary perspectives. Students will gain an understanding of how non-normative sexualities and genders have been organized in previous historical moments and in different cultural and national contexts in the present. The minor equips students with awareness of sexual and gender diversity and how sexuality intersects with and informs other categories of identity and practice, such as race, class, ethnicity, age, and disability.

A minor in LGBTQ Studies prepares students for their pursuit of graduate and professional degrees. Given the increasing demand for nuance around issues of diversity in both the public and private sectors of the job market, this minor also positions Sacramento State graduates well for careers in education, social work, counseling, health care, social services, media, law and policy, and nonprofit advocacy.

As defined by policy <http://www.csus.edu/umannual/acadaff/fsm00010.htm>, a change in units constitutes a substantive change to the program. If your changes constitute a substantive change, please refer back to the "Program Change Type" field above to ensure that "Substantive" is selected.
